Set in a historic building on the Kerkstraat in Amsterdam, this multi-level venue was founded by Claudia Smithson and Elmar Krop as a site for artistic expression across disciplines, including art, design, fashion, food, and music.

With a vision of fostering meaningful connections, CoachHouse61 provides a platform for both emerging and established artists to showcase their work, exchange ideas, and collaborate. More than just a venue, it's a space designed to bring people together, encouraging cross-disciplinary dialogue and cultural exchange.

Beyond hosting our own programming, we offer our unique spaces for rent—ideal for exhibitions, events, workshops, and private gatherings. Every booking directly supports cultural initiatives, as we reinvest the revenue into ambitious artistic projects and expanding opportunities for creatives. Therefore, you're not just renting a venue—you're contributing to a growing artistic ecosystem.

Rooted in the values of openness, creativity, and mutual support, CoachHouse61 welcomes artists, designers, and thinkers who are passionate about sharing their craft in a dynamic and inclusive environment.

The Ground Floor

The ground floor consists of our main entrance hall, side room, vide balcony, elaborate kitchen and garden area. This space is ideal for welcoming your guests, whether you're greeting them with a glass of champagne or kicking things off with a speech from your host. There's also plenty of room for a sit-down dinner, accommodating up to 40 guests. If you'd like, there is a possibility to rent the club next door, for further information please get in touch with us.

A photograph of a doorway with a white frame set into a dark grey wall. The doorway leads into a bright, empty gallery space with white walls, a concrete floor, and a track of spotlights on the ceiling. Sunlight streams in from the right, casting shadows on the floor. A black electrical outlet is visible on the wall to the right of the doorway.

The Gallery

The 81 square meter space divided into two rooms, one larger 'gallery' space and one kitchen/table space. The gallery is where you'll find most of the artwork on display. We aim to feature a wide range of art styles, design disciplines, and cultural perspectives, so everyone feels included and represented. It's a great space for upscale fashion shows, exhibitions, or even experiential events. With its mix of contemporary and classic design, the area is stylishly furnished with unique details and materials that give it a special feel.

The image shows a spacious, bright interior, likely a studio or loft. The ceiling features exposed wooden beams and a track with two spotlights. A prominent white brick pillar stands in the center. To the left, a black metal staircase railing is visible. The floor is made of wide wooden planks. On the right, large multi-paned windows with white frames let in natural light, casting shadows on the floor. A white built-in bench or storage unit is positioned under the windows. The overall aesthetic is modern and industrial.

The Studio

The 81 sq meter large and open space with large windows and original wooden beams and flooring. The walls are white and the natural ambience of the space offers a broad opportunity for interpretation. On the third floor of our location you can find our studio space, this area is very diverse and suitable for a wide range of uses. For example, workshops, dinners, meetings, creative work or extra exhibition space. The studio is very light due to its five high, wide set windows and can create a seating space for up to 80 guests.
